Walk map of Nishi-Maizuru

Nishi-Maizuru (The West of Maizuru city) has been developed into a castle town by the military commander, Yusa! HOSOKAWA. Walk around to have a taste of the past. There are numerous historical scenarios, such as temples and shrines, that are exclusive to Maizuru.

Seven Bank ATM
 • Located at 7-Eleven (Convenience Shop) and BAZAAR TOWN Fresh BAZAAR (Shopping Center).
 You can withdraw Japanese Yen from these ATMs.

Enryu-ji Temple: A very old temple erected by Soshi during the Heian period. A great number of Buddha statues still remain from the Heian and Kamakura eras. There are many carved awls engraved into the brick walkway in front of Tanishiki Hall, dating back to as far as 1883.

Asashiro Jinja Shrine: Asashiro Jinja Shrine is a very old shrine, originally built to praise Tawerimikoto, the guardian deity of Maizuru in the early days of the shrine. The garden gate to the shrine is a very old shrine. The shrine is now designated as a city cultural asset.

Kairin-ji Temple: In front of the main gate is the inscription "Kairin-ji". "Kairin" and "Shin" refer to garlic and alcohol respectively, while "Kin" means worshiped. The essentially means "No alcohol or smelly items are allowed".

Myochi-ji Temple: A panoramic spot where all of Nishi-Maizuru can be seen. Decorative roof and tiles weighing up to 630kg can also be spotted.

Kenju-ji Temple: It is said that the stairs were built wide so that people could descend them on horseback.

Meirinken Front Gate: You can find the gate of what once was a prestigious clan in a room of Tanabe's domain. This room produced many scholars and is now preserved as Maizuru Elementary School.

A number of nationally selected cultural properties are stored in Enryu-ji Temple.

"Bunshi Nohkura" (Picture of a Living Buddha) can be seen. This is a cultural property that was designed by the Kyoto province.

Asashiro is one of the most important and historical shrines in the northern Kyoto province.
